Second Saturday to blossom April 10 with shopping, arts, music, more!

Is springtime the best Second Saturday season of all? Might be! Shops are chock full of colorful new outfits and accessories. Chefs are breaking out tempting new menus for the season. Customers are strolling without shivering, and shopkeepers are popping open doors to say, "Come on in!"

This weekend's Second Saturday festivities cap off a big day in Cambridge. During the day, the YMCA is putting on the 2nd annual Crab Run Half Marathon, and MTS Broadcasting is putting on the first-ever Maryland Boatbuilders & Dealers Expo (see story this page). In addition, the Friends of Library hold their monthly Second Saturday Book Sale, 9am-2pm at the library. After all that, everyone is heading downtown for an evening of strolling, shopping, and dining while catching up with friends and neighbors.

Shopping Three galleries will be holding receptions. Joie de Vivre Gallery, 410 Race Street, is highlighting new work by the amazing metal sculptor Paul Lockhart. Don't forget to stop in back to see the latest additions to the Danny Doughty Gallery. The Main Street Gallery, 413 Muir Street, is celebrating its "Green Show," featuring works by various artists on environmental themes and using recycled materials. (Earrings and necklaces by Armando Suarez have been flying out the door since this exhibit opened!) The Dorchester Center for the Arts, 321 High Street, is featuring works by artists affiliated with the renowned Washington Printmakers Gallery, including Nina Muys, Rosemary Cooley, and Gabriel Jules, as well as Martha Graham. (See "In the Galleries," page 3).

APRIL 10, 5-9PM

Downtown's restaurants will be busy, so call ahead with your dining reservations. Starting at 8pm, Canvasback

Music Restaurant, 420 Race Street, will feature jazz with Minus One. Starting at 10pm, local favorite Mike Elzey's Mayhem Band will hit the stage at Jimmie & Sook's, 421 Race Street.

Fun! PARENT'S NIGHT OUT: Need a date night? Try Second Saturday babysitting at the YMCA—only $10 per child for Friends of Cambridge Main Street and $5 for YMCA members. 5-10:30pm for children ages 4-10. Reserve by noon, April 8, at 410.221.0505. (See page 6 for info on how to become a Friend of Main Street.)

Composite Yacht of Trappe and many others will be showing their stuff at the Boat Expo April 10-11.

Boat Expo is April 10-11

A great new annual event makes its debut this weekend—the Maryland

Boatbuilders & Dealers Expo at Governor's Hall at Sailwinds Park. The folks at MTS Broadcasting organizing this event have lined up exhibitors to show off great vessels and marine gear.

More than a dozen boatbuilders and dealers are signed on, including Composite Yacht, Judge Yachts, Campbell's Custom Yachts, Swain Boatbuilders, Gootee's Marine, and Danny's Marine. (For a complete list of exhibitors, visit www.cambridgemainstreet.com.) At least 10 vendors will showcase marine products and services, including Cambridge Main Street members CYA Marine Canvas and Cambridge Yacht Club. And downtown restaurants Jimmie & Sook's and J&J Banquet Hall will be serving food.

Admission is $5 (kids under 12 free). Stop by 10-4 on Saturday and 12-4 on Sunday. MTS Broadcasting is donating gate receipts from this event to Cambridge Main Street to support the revitalization of our downtown. Thank you, MTS, home of the Mid-Shore's best stations!

Open wide for Paul's Subs!

A great big Cambridge welcome to Paul's Subs, which opened for business April 1 and has been drawing a slew of customers since. Located near the drawbridge where El Torito used to be, the shop is the work of Cambridge resident Paul Baiers, who ran a similar shop a while back when he lived in the DC suburbs. Cold and hot subs, burgers, specialty clubs, sandwiches, soups and salads, wings, and more. They also deliver. Stop in soon and try it out! 400 Academy St., 410.901.1004. Open daily.

Tubman Museum makeover

Congrats to everyone at the Harriet Tubman Museum and the city Department of Public Works for all their hard work on the overhaul of the museum building these past few months. The new façade with its grand windows looks spectacular. Grant funding to support this project came through the Maryland Department of Housing & Community Development. The museum, at 424 Race Street, is scheduled to reopen to the public April 14. Call to confirm at 410.228.0401.

Business consultant draws a full house, offers helpful tips

It was standing-room only at City Council Chambers on March 30 when business consultant Margie Johnson delivered a 90-minute small-business training, "Accentuate the Positive! Tips & Tactics for Growing Your Business in 2010." Later that day, Ms. Johnson completed 90-minute one-on-one consultations with four Main Street member shops.

Touching on visual merchandising, customer service, low-budget marketing and other topics, the training won rave reviews from an audience that included representatives from more than a dozen Cambridge businesses, as well as Main Street program managers from all over the state.

Ms. Johnson's services came at no cost to Cambridge Main Street, which won a competitive application process to host this event offered by the Main Street Maryland program at the Maryland Department of Housing & Community Development. Many thanks, as always, to Amy Seitz and Tim Murphy for their hard work supporting Maryland's Main Street communities.

Consultant Margie Johnson, who's worked with the likes of Macy's and Lord & Taylor, offered guidance to local business owners.

Historic application in the works

Work on developing an application to put the Pine Street corridor and surrounding streets in the National Register of Historic Places is officially under way. Cambridge Main Street was able to hire expert consultant Paul Tuoart thanks to a grant from the Maryland Historical Trust. Mr. Tuoart started his work in late March. An application should be complete by early 2011.

During Spring Fling, Linda Pasden and Cherie Koontz try their luck at the Mad Money table, where volunteer Dave Reid oversaw the super-fast sellout.

Spring Fling takes flight

Last month, Main Street put on its first-ever traditional fundraising bash, the Spring Fling. Thanks to the generosity of our community, the event exceeded expectations across the board—ticket sales (a sellout!), auction proceeds, and sales of “Mad Money” gift certificates.

Best of all, a good time was had by all!

Thanks to all of the individuals, families, and companies who donated gift certificates and auction items. Thanks to the volunteers who worked so hard on the event. Thanks to the Yacht Club for being such great hosts. And thanks to all of you who came out to show your generous support of the work we do.

Farmers Market returns May 6

Can't you just taste those juicy, delicious—and red!—farm-fresh tomatoes? You'll have your share of them soon at the Main Street Farmers Market. It'll be back May 6 for its third full year of connecting our Shore farmers with our downtown customers. It's still going to be on Thursday afternoons, and it's going to start half an hour earlier, at 3pm, wrapping up at 6pm.

Market master Beth Ann Lynch has lots of fun new stuff up her sleeve for this year's market. Keep up to date as the market approaches by signing on to receive regular Market e-mail updates. To get on the list, send an e-mail to office@cambridgemainstreet.com, and we'll forward the request along.

Thanks to our Spring Fling donors!

A big thank you to these individuals and businesses who generously donated items for the Main Street Spring Fling auctions.

The Buzz

1 New stuff for LunaChick: Look for some cool new changes at LunaChick, 430 Race Street, as owner Christie Rottman works with Cambridge resident Patty Lynch to bring in some new products (beads, anyone?) and change the décor around—and maybe even make use of the cute courtyard out back.

2 The future of Scoop: Sam Owings of the former Scoop Station was awarded a contingent liquor license at a recent hearing of the County Board of License Commissioners. Watch here for news on his exciting new plans for that property at the corner of Muir and Academy streets. (In the meantime, anyone want to open a nice little ice cream shop or coffee shop somewhere downtown?)

3 Farewell to Maris Elaine: A fond farewell to Terri Easter and Adrian Holmes of the Maris Elaine Gallery. The Gallery moved recently from our downtown to a new location in suburban Washington, D.C. They're also opening a little "galleryette" at the Hyatt in Cambridge.

4 New life for tavern: The building that housed the former Little Rock Tavern, 404 Race Street, should have a new tenant soon. Watch our website and Facebook pages for updates.

5 Volunteers needed! The volunteer planning committees for Taste of Cambridge and Summer Sendoff are taking shape. If you'd like to help put one of these two great events together, send an e-mail to office@cambridgemainstreet.com.

7 Raves x 2! Pick up the April issue of Chesapeake Bay Magazine if you get chance. It's got a rave review of Bistro Poplar, as well as a big story about summer seafood festivals, including our own Taste of Cambridge (with great photos by Main Street board member Dave Harp). The Main Street office is already fielding calls from readers who want tickets to this year's Taste.

FIBRE CAFÉ & CRABCATCHER'S SCAVENGER SHOP: Fibre Café now has quilting fabric! Plus bikes, tools, fishing poles, tools, and all the stuff you want for spring at Crabcatcher's.

Let there be light—on the mural

In April, Coulbourn Electric installed a new lighting system to illuminate the Cannery Way mural created last summer by artists Willy Schlossbach and Jen Wagner. Thanks to Hunt Insurance and an anonymous donor for financing the project with help from Main Street's Façade Improvement Program. Thanks, too, to the City Council, which agreed to have the energy-efficient lights routed through city power supply.

City to add new downtown signage

The Economic Development Department of the City of Cambridge is nearing the finish line on a grant-funded project to add some great new directional signage to clarify for visitors where they can park while visiting downtown and how to navigate the downtown as a pedestrian. The signs are expected to be fabricated soon. Congrats to Natalie Chabot, Mary Calloway, and their volunteer signage advisory committee for the good work getting done here.
